Data disclaimer

As diaspora definitions vary widely, we have chosen to use comparable data on emigration as a proxy. This does not include all who consider themselves diaspora and is not necessarily aligned with national definitions of diaspora. Emigration data comes from UNDESA (2024) and remittances from the World Bank (2024).

1 Code de la Nationalité Comorienne, 1979 ; for a discussion of the complexities of Comoros nationality legislation see: <http://www.comores-infos.net/le-droit-de-la-nationalite-aux-comores/> . Unusually, Comoros has permitted dual nationality for applications for so-called 'economic nationality' from foreign nationals since 2008. This is a point of tension with the diaspora, as they are not permitted dual nationality.

2 Source: From UNDESA Migration Stock Statistics. This probably represents a significant underestimate, given the number of Comorian diaspora with other nationalities. French diaspora organisation FORIM estimated the Comorian diaspora in France to be between 150,000 and 300,000 in 2014, see: <https://www.forim.net/sites/default/files/Etude%20sur%20la%20diaspora%20des%20Comores%20en%20France%20par%20%20CAGF-FORIM.pdf>.

3 The current Constitution does not include provisions for diaspora voting in the presidential elections, although Article 66 allows for diaspora representation in the National Assembly. In reality, voting by the diaspora is not exercised.

Overview of the policy and legislative framework

- 2011 ● Decentralization to strengthen participatory democracy and contribute to local development: The Union of Comoros passed a series of laws in 2011 to enable greater decentralisation with the aim of strengthening participatory democracy and contributions to local development, including by the diaspora.⁴ These enabled greater autonomy for local authorities in the Comoros Islands to establish co-development projects with local authorities in other countries. Most of these partnerships have been forged with local authorities in France.⁵ While these laws do not reference diaspora explicitly, they have enabled greater diaspora participation in co-development activities in the Comoros Islands.
- 2018 ● Comoros' Constitution of 2018 (Article 16)⁶ stipulates that Comorian citizens residing abroad “enjoy the rights, freedoms and guarantees consecrated in the Constitution, and are subject to the duties established in it on [the] condition that this is not incompatible with their absence from the national territory”.
- 2018 ● Accelerated Growth and Sustainable Development Strategy (SCA2D)⁷ contains Strategic Objective 6 that aims to promote trade and high value-added services (such as law or finances) and create decent jobs, such as in ICT. One expected result of this strategic objective is to optimise diaspora transfers. It also sets out decentralised cooperation with the diaspora as a means to stimulate local economies, building on the legal changes mentioned above.⁸ This document also acknowledges the lack of a diaspora policy and accurate data on the location and composition of its diaspora as barriers to achieving greater diaspora remittance flows and investments.⁹

The SCA2D also envisages the creation of an investment fund for the Comorian diaspora, in order to increase the productivity of their financial contributions and ‘channel them towards productive projects’, although it provides no detail on how this will be achieved.¹⁰
- 2019 ● The Emerging Comoros Plan 2030 sets out and guides the country’s development ambitions. The strategic plan details the key ideas and large-scale projects that will drive the structural transformation of the economy. It refers to diaspora and remittances and calls to capitalise on them.
- 2023 ● The 2023 Draft National Strategy for Mobilising and Engaging the Comorian Diaspora aims to refine the diaspora engagement approach to inclusively involve the Comorian diaspora in the country’s development. The draft is in the endorsement process at the time of this update.¹¹

Developing Diaspora Engagement in Comoros

The government of Comoros is starting to take a greater interest in diaspora engagement, and is currently working with IOM to support the implementation of the government's SCA2D national development strategy and the United Nations Development Assistance Framework (UNDAF). IOM is also assisting in the implementation of a diaspora engagement project which seeks to mobilise the human and other diaspora resources of the diaspora (investments, social capital, political capital), in order to build capacities of national stakeholders, to foster dialogue, and develop multi-sectoral strategies for leveraging the diaspora's contributions to national development.

The Franco Comorian Co-development Programme (FCCP)

Funded by French government, the FCCP aimed to support Comorian migrants in their commitment to the country's development. The FCCP made the first selection of grant applications from the call for projects during its selection committee meeting in Moroni in 2013, with a subsequent round in 2014. Projects funded included education, health, and enterprise initiatives. Priority was given to joint projects of local authorities and diaspora groups in order to enable the involvement of beneficiaries and greater capacity-building. This approach sought to capitalise on the decentralisation process initiated by the Union of Comoros. Results of this programme are however unclear.

PAFED: Diaspora Entrepreneurial Training Support Programme

The African Agency for International Economic Cooperation (ACEI) offers ten-day sessions where participants can study key investment, regulatory and tax issues.

Tourism Marketing Strategy to Mitigate the Effects of COVID-19

Supported by the Enhanced Integrated Framework (EIF), the National Tourism Office (ONT) of Comoros launched eco-tourism packages, covering outdoor adventure activities, gastronomic experiences and cultural site visits, for the local people to showcase their cultural heritage and environmental consideration. The Comorian diaspora populations are a key target market for this strategy, aiming to connect diaspora back to their heritage while contributing to the local economic recovery after the pandemic.

Global Gateway Forum: EU and Comoros

The European Union is supporting Comoros through the 2021-2027 EU programming to implement the Emerging Comoros Plan. One of the programmes under the agreement is the “Wamanga wa Komor” (Comorians of the Diaspora). With a budget of €4 million, it aims to mobilise and support Comorian diaspora funds in line with national development priorities. Its activities include strengthening sectoral governance; supporting diaspora entrepreneurs and investors, particularly youth and women; promoting green and blue initiatives; and supporting the Comorian diaspora to contribute to local and territorial development.

Kom'Back 2025

The Kom'Back is a free programme launched by the KomLink association of Comorian entrepreneurs in France. It aims to support productive and sustainable diaspora investment in the Comoros by building a community of local and international partners, providing practical tools and avenues to exchange with experts and the diaspora.

Diaspora Days

Organised by the Union of Chambers of Commerce, Industry and Crafts of the Comoros (UCCIA), the “Diaspora Days” event was held in Moroni in July and August 2025 to strengthen ties between Comorians abroad and their homeland. The event was launched with the theme “50 Years of Comorian Diaspora Engagement: Retrospective and Perspectives” and implemented conferences, panels, workshops and cultural events that celebrated the strategic role of the diaspora in national development.

>> Observations

The “Observations” and “Obstacles” sections contain additional information on the context of diaspora engagement that does not fit directly into the other sections. They are based on a combination of literature review and comments from the authors. New information is incorporated during the annual updates. Readers are invited to verify the relevance of the information at the time of reading, as the context may have evolved.

It is only in recent years that Comoros has begun to pursue diaspora engagement as a national priority. The government has invested in infrastructure such as roads and hospitals with help from the French government and from its diaspora there (principally human resources and expertise). Comoros is also interested in encouraging investment and heritage tourism from its diaspora.

In June 2015, the Minister of the Interior announced the decision declaring that the diaspora's contribution had a big impact on the national economy and national development and that they should thus have a vote in the Comorian elections. However, this decision was ultimately reversed by the Electoral Commission, which cited “technical reasons.” Calls for diaspora voting continue, advocating for more opportunities for the diaspora to contribute to the country's development.

Obstacles

- Lack of political interest and resources: Historically there has been a lack of interest from the government of Comoros in its diaspora, as well as a lack of resources allocated to diaspora engagement, despite the large size of the diaspora relative to the country's population and its reliance on remittances. The lack of engagement and low prioritisation are attributable in part to political differences in Comoros and in the diaspora.
- Lack of diaspora engagement frameworks and structures: There has been little policy focus on engaging the Comorian diaspora, and it is only in the 2017-2019 period that the government started to turn its attention to developing such a framework. The lack of a diaspora policy and accurate data on the location and composition of its diaspora are still barriers to achieving greater diaspora remittance flows and investments.
- Local focus of the Comorian diaspora: The vast majority of Comorian diaspora are resident in France, and maintain strong links with specific local communities of origin. Comorian diaspora contributions – of money, skills, time and advocacy / awareness raising – tend to be oriented towards these local communities of origin, and it can be challenging to re-orient these to national schemes in the absence of frameworks and incentives for engagement and because of a lack of trust in the government.
