As diaspora definitions vary widely, we have chosen to use comparable data on emigration as a proxy. This does not include all who consider themselves diaspora and is not necessarily aligned with national definitions of diaspora. Emigration data comes from UNDESA (2024) and remittances from the World Bank (2024).

Overview of the policy and legislative framework

- 1990 ● The Constitution says in Article 38 that the state shall protect the rights and legitimate interests of Beninese citizens abroad.⁴ The article has been used as a basis for allowing the diaspora to vote in national elections.⁵
- 2000 ● 2000 National Policy for Beninese Abroad. Benin's diaspora engagement policy addresses the following aspects of diaspora engagement: security and protection needs, and economic, cultural, educational, economic and political engagement.⁶ A new national migration policy is also being finalised which will address some aspects of diaspora engagement.⁷
- 2014 ● The Development Pact of Benin with the Diaspora⁸ serves as a diaspora engagement framework for socio-economic development, with commitments aiming to make the diaspora an active development actor engaged in poverty reduction. It outlines policy priorities including improving state-diaspora dialogue and participation, surveying the diaspora, strengthening diaspora rights, establishing development financing mechanisms, and mobilising diaspora competencies.
- 2016 ● The Government Action Programme 2021-2026 foresees to increase the visibility of the contribution of citizens of Benin, Africans and the diaspora to scientific research and innovation to support a new dynamic in the research and innovation sector, in order to make it a lever for socioeconomic development.⁹
- 2019 ● The National Development Plan 2018-2025 recognises the diaspora as a source of development financing, noting its importance to supporting daily household consumption and its potential to contribute to domestic savings. It further states that the government will direct diaspora funds towards productive investments, including through financial products and microfinance.¹⁰
- 2024 ● A new citizenship bill has been adopted by Benin, allowing descendants of those forcibly taken from the region to gain citizenship. The legislation, approved in September 2024, offers Beninese citizenship to anyone who can trace their ancestry to victims of the slave trade and who does not hold another African nationality.¹¹

Capacity-building activities involving diaspora civil servants¹²

Benin has demonstrated that its diaspora can be engaged to build public sector capacities. In 2018, the National Association of Communes of Benin signed an agreement with the Association of French Elected Officials of Beninese Origin. The partnership, which saw high-level support from the Beninese presidency, will see Beninese-origin elected officials from France work with Beninese mayors to strengthen local governance.

Support to Beninese diaspora entrepreneurs

The London-based African Foundation for Development (AFFORD) launched its AFFORD Business Centre (ABC) Benin project in February 2020 to enhance the investment potential of the diaspora in the small- and medium-sized enterprise (SME) sector. With support from the Swiss Agency for Development and Cooperation, ABC Benin will support diaspora-led SMEs, with an outreach campaign planning to mobilise the Beninese diaspora across Europe who wish to invest in Benin.

2017 Consular Registration

The National Agency for Identification of Persons (ANIP) is offering Beninese living in Europe the opportunity to register at the Consular Section of the Embassy of Benin in France to enable them to benefit, under the same conditions as in Benin, from advantages such as the allocation of a personal identification number (NPI) which guarantees the security of their civil status documents and facilitates access to all the e-services available on ANIP's dedicated portal and Benin's national public services portal.

i-diaspora platform for consular services

The Government of Benin launched the i-diaspora platform in 2024 to promote consular registration for Benin nationals abroad. The platform provides a consular identification, along with a certificate, which allows Benin nationals abroad to access administrative documents remotely.

New digital registration platform for beninese abroad

The Benin government has announced the rollout of a programme registering Beninese nationals residing abroad in the National Register of Natural Persons and the National Agency for Identification of Persons, as well as the issuance of a Personal Identification Number with a biometric card for these individuals. This programme enables easier processing of administrative documents required for citizens living abroad, such as participating in national elections and obtaining police clearance certificates.

Knowledge and innovation hub

Sèmè City: A knowledge and innovation hub aimed at fostering entrepreneurship and research, attracting both local and diaspora talents. It provides programmes and infrastructure to support start-ups and innovators, serving as a bridge for diaspora members to contribute to national development.

Building a circular economy ecosystem in Porto Novo (D4D Grant)

Porto-Novo faces major socio-environmental challenges, worsened by the limited capacity of its waste management system. In response, Gbobètò brings a new local solution through the establishment of two recycling centres and a “Comptoir du Plastique” (Plastic Counter). The project, supported by EUDiF Diaspora 4 Development (D4D) grants, provides targeted technical support for the establishment of a local value chain and recycling ecosystem, which creates economic opportunities around recycled plastic to further empower local waste pickers and reduce environmental pollution. At the same time, community awareness raising sessions are planned within the school communities to encourage lasting sustainable practices among young people.

Spike Lee, Benin’s star ambassador

The American filmmaker Spike Lee and his wife Tonya Lewis Lee, a producer and attorney have been appointed by the Council of Ministers as thematic ambassadors of the Republic of Benin, raising awareness and supporting initiatives to promote Benin’s ties with people of African descent.

>> Observations

The “Observations” and “Obstacles” sections contain additional information on the context of diaspora engagement that does not fit directly into the other sections. They are based on a combination of literature review and comments from the authors. New information is incorporated during the annual updates. Readers are invited to verify the relevance of the information at the time of reading, as the context may have evolved.

Since Benin’s transition to democracy in the 1990s, the Beninese abroad have been able to participate in the political life of their country of origin, with their rights to vote and to dual citizenship rarely questioned.

Beninese diaspora engagement gained momentum at the turn of the century, when the government launched a national diaspora policy and empowered the foreign ministry with a diaspora engagement mandate and a diaspora-focused directorate and national agency. Around the same time, the High Council of Beninese Abroad (HCBE) was recognised by the state as a “public utility association”, with the aim of bringing together diaspora associations and serving as a conduit between the diaspora and the state.

Benin has continued to signal its intention to encourage the use of diaspora expertise back home and channel more funds towards investment initiatives, including in its latest national development plan. However, plans for a diaspora-orientated reform of the Investment Code and a new partnership between the state and the diaspora (mentioned in the latest Government Action Programme) have yet to materialise.

In addition, notwithstanding the benefits of Benin's dual citizenship arrangements and diaspora participation in democratic discourse, the resulting "internationalisation" of local politics has been subject to criticism.¹³ Moreover, political divisions within the diaspora are said to have increased in recent years as domestic politics have become polarised.¹⁴ That said, the government has brought several high-profile diaspora members into senior positions (see below), underscoring its commitment to encouraging diaspora participation in national governance.

Despite implementing relatively few new high-profile diaspora engagement activities, in recent years, the government has taken steps to improve service delivery for the issuance of passports to the Beninese abroad,¹⁵ while facilitating the travel through the introduction of an e-visa (for non-citizen diaspora), and addressing harassment at the airport.¹⁶

In 2016, the Office of the President established a mechanism to market opportunities to diaspora-owned contracting companies wishing to work on – or co-finance – development projects in Benin, although the results of the programme have not yet been ascertained.¹⁷ In 2019, the Beninese Embassy in France engaged diaspora entrepreneurs in discussions regarding investment opportunities in Benin, with stakeholders agreeing to establish a network of France-based Beninese entrepreneurs and a dialogue framework with the embassy.¹⁸

Obstacles

- Restructuring of diaspora representation: In recent years, the High Council of Beninese Abroad has undergone a restructuring process, while dealing with governance issues and member disputes.¹⁹ Some of the HCBE's country sections have been suspended and splinter groups have formed. This has arguably constrained their ability to set the agenda and legitimately speak for the diaspora.²⁰
- Challenges surveying the diaspora: The National Agency for Migration and the Diaspora has said that accurately surveying the diaspora has been a challenge, as Beninese abroad often do not register with authorities unless they have a problem.²¹
- Low diaspora confidence in Beninese governance: Building diaspora trust has been a persistent challenge for the government, especially with regard to reassuring the diaspora that funds committed to national development will be used appropriately. Low confidence in land and property rights has also constrained diaspora investment.²²
