Draft Diaspora Engagement Policy 2016³

This draft policy, developed following a series of consultative events involving diaspora communities held in Liberia and overseas, provides an analysis of engagement challenges and opportunities, as well as guiding principles and policy and programme areas. Its top-line objectives are to build trust with the diaspora and engage them in national development. Its guiding principles emphasise cultural heritage preservation, reconciliation, dialogue and participation. Its five policy and programme areas are:

- 1) Reducing barriers to engagement;
- 2) Increasing investments and remittance flows;
- 3) Transferring human capital and technology;
- 4) Increasing philanthropy;
- 5) Building the institutional framework.

² A law has been passed in 2022 by members of the 54th legislature to allow diaspora to participate in voting in elections from abroad. <https://www.liberianobserver.com/diaspora-liberians-could-vote-2023-election-if>.

Overview of the policy and legislative framework

- 2015 ● The Decent Work Act⁴ allows the state to license private employment agencies, including those that employ Liberians abroad. This is a major development from the previous regime (the Labour Law of 1956), which in principle banned all recruitment of Liberians for employment abroad.⁵
- 2016 ● The National Migration Policy states the government's aim to promote an enabling environment for diaspora contributions, while laying out actions to increase competition between remittance service providers, to enhance rural access to formal money transfer services, to hold a referendum on dual citizenship, and to address the return and replacement of skilled nationals.⁶
- 2014
2018 ● The Pro-Poor Agenda for Prosperity and Development (PAPD)⁷ is the latest national development plan and follows on from the Agenda for Transformation (Aft) 2012-2017. The PAPD makes several references to diaspora engagement, though it outlines few specific actions. It underlines the importance of "continuous engagement" [with the diaspora] to facilitate diaspora return to establish businesses and non-profit organisations. It states that the government will "remain open" to diaspora volunteers in education, health, and social services, as well as facilitating family remittances. One specific action included in the PAPD is to diversify the economy by establishing a Private Sector Finance Fund (PSFF) to provide financing to Liberian companies. The diaspora is mentioned as one of several potential partners of the PSFF, which intends to finance companies in road construction, energy, information and communications technology, and water and sanitation. Finally, the PAPD states the government's intention to "deploy passport application centers in regions with high concentration of Liberian diasporas", underscoring the government's intention to allow dual citizenship in the future.

» Trends & accomplishments

Despite its unique characteristic as a diaspora-founded state,⁸ it was not until the inauguration of President Ellen Johnson-Sirleaf in 2005 that Liberia began actively mobilising efforts towards engaging its diaspora.⁹ President Sirleaf's administration initiated several outreach activities to promote diaspora contributions to national development, which coincided with a steady increase in remittance inflows.¹⁰

During her 2010 trip to the United States – the Liberian diaspora's principal country of residence – President Sirleaf addressed the diaspora in New York, marking the first formal homage to the country's diaspora.¹¹ In the same year, the government organised Liberia's first Diaspora Homecoming Forum, which provided the diaspora with information on employment, development and investment opportunities in Liberia, while receiving support from the World Bank to implement the Liberia Will Rise Again Diaspora Engagement Program,¹² an initiative to establish a government diaspora unit and develop a national diaspora policy.^{13,14}

In 2016, the government brought together representatives of diaspora organisations worldwide to discuss the draft diaspora engagement policy.¹⁵ Since then, the government has been slow to operationalise the World Bank-supported Diaspora Affairs Unit or to implement the diaspora engagement initiatives outlined in the draft diaspora policy. However, steps have been taken to map the Liberian diaspora through the government's voluntary diaspora registration initiative. Moreover, after lying dormant for several years, the aforementioned Diaspora Engagement Programme was reactivated in 2018 after the newly-elected President George Manneh Weah underlined the importance of the diaspora in his inaugural address.¹⁶

Obstacles

- Capacity limitations: while the government has taken gradual steps towards establishing institutional initiatives to support diaspora engagement, initiatives have largely depended on support from international donors. In part due to these capacity limitations, the government has only recently reactivated the Diaspora Affairs Unit and has yet to endorse the Draft Policy on Diaspora Engagement.¹⁷
- Persistent divisions on dual citizenship: Liberian diaspora organisations have long lobbied the government to enact dual citizenship. Despite President George Manneh Weah's support, survey data has suggested that most Liberians support the current restrictions. Some academics have argued that Liberia's unique experiences of civil war, forced displacement and national identity have made it difficult to push through dual citizenship.¹⁸
- Investment risk: Weak legal frameworks, corruption, poor infrastructure, and several legal restrictions on foreign investment have limited the country's ability to attract diaspora investment and the return of highly-qualified diaspora talent.¹⁹
- Remittances dependency: Liberia has one of the highest levels of remittance dependency in Sub-Saharan Africa.²⁰ While the high remittance-to-GDP ratio represents a development opportunity for the country, whose remittances have exceeded the government budget and supported the country through previous crises, it also renders the economy vulnerable to external shocks. For instance, remittances fell during the 2020 COVID-19 pandemic.²¹
