Political rights

Dual citizenship³

Right to vote in national elections for citizens residing abroad⁴

Terminology: From the government's perspective, the Ugandan diaspora comprises of all people of Ugandan origin living and/or working outside Uganda. It also includes Ugandans who may have lost their citizenship through acquisition of other citizenship.⁵

National Diaspora Policy (draft) 2013⁶

In 2013 Uganda developed a draft diaspora policy in 2013 with support from UNDP and other stakeholders, although it is yet to be formally adopted. The draft policy is part of a broad national strategy designed to support mobilization and utilization of diaspora resources in the country's development agenda. The main objective of this is to accord full participation of the diaspora in national development.⁷

Overview of the policy and legislative framework

- 2015
2019
- National Development Plan II 2015/16-2019/20⁸ is Uganda's second national development strategy. It notes the importance of harnessing diaspora support and investment for national development beyond remittances. Within NDP II, the Public Administration Sector (PAS) has a strategic objective of 'attracting cooperation assistance and contributions from the diaspora', in particular regarding the recruitment of Ugandan diaspora professionals under objective 4 to 'Increase the human capital stock in the NDP II priority areas', in particular in the health and education sectors.
- 2020
2025
- National Development Plan III 2020-2025 (2020)⁹ is Uganda's latest national development plan. Like its predecessor, it acknowledges the need to harness diaspora and the private sector to resource its full implementation, and proposes the use of diaspora bonds and online treasury bills as a means to achieve this. NDP III also includes objectives to operationalise the National Diaspora Policy and develop a National Diaspora Investment Strategy.
- 2021
- Uganda Vision 2040¹⁰ provides development paths and strategies to operationalize Uganda's Vision statement which is "A Transformed Ugandan Society from a Peasant to a Modern and Prosperous Country within 30 years". Diaspora are envisioned as contributing to private sector development through their remittances.

>> Trends

Historically, there has been a lack of trust between the Ugandan government and its diaspora. However, since the mid-2000s this perception has been evolving and the government has increasingly sought to engage its diaspora so as to harness their contributions to national development.¹¹

While the Ugandan government's policy and strategy documents reference the importance of diversifying diaspora contributions beyond remittance flows, there is a lack of detailed planning on how this is to be achieved. Uganda has become an important host country for refugees displaced from neighbouring countries in recent years, and arguably managing immigration flows, both of refugees and irregular migrants, which has been a greater priority for the government. The Ugandan diaspora are themselves involved in humanitarian relief activities in refugee settlements in the country.¹²

✈ Achievements

The establishment of the Diaspora Services Department (DSD) in 2007 marked an important milestone in Uganda's diaspora engagement. DSD has sought to develop programmes to enhance diaspora participation in the country's economic and technical development. The World Bank supported DSD financially to perform feasibility studies aimed at engaging diaspora talents in the infrastructure sector, specifically in the energy, roads, and railways subsectors with a focus on developing the technical skills of staff.¹³ In 2012, DSD worked with the Uganda Investment Authority and UNDP to develop a compendium of investment opportunities for Ugandan diaspora to invest back home.¹⁴

There has been renewed interest in diaspora engagement from the government and from parliamentarians in recent years, and in June 2020 The High Court in Kampala ruled that the electoral franchise be extended to Ugandans who are incarcerated or who are in the diaspora, with the prospect that these groups will be able to vote in elections in 2021.¹⁵

The Ugandan diaspora are important contributors of remittances flows and investments, although the latter tend to be in the micro-, small-, and medium-enterprise (MSME) sectors of the economy.¹⁶ Ugandan diaspora business and investment networks regularly hold trade and investment events in countries of residence and in Uganda, focussed on a range of sectors such as property, energy, IT and Fintech, agriculture, and hospitality.¹⁷

There were significant South Asian diaspora communities in Uganda that were deported by Idi Amin in the early 1970s, and who sought refuge in Canada, India, and the UK among other countries. These Ugandan-Asian diaspora communities maintain business and family ties to Uganda and play an important role in the Ugandan economy.¹⁸

Obstacles

- Lack of trust: Among the diaspora, there is a general lack of trust of government structures and schemes, and corruption (perceived or actual) is a barrier to diaspora engagement.¹⁹
- Lack of information & infrastructure: Detailed information on government-led diaspora engagement opportunities in Uganda is not easily accessible to the diaspora, with a lack of targeted communications and investment-support infrastructure.
- Capacity: Diaspora engagement structures and programmes lack adequate human and capital resourcing to maximise their potential.²⁰
- High cost of capital: Accessing financing for diaspora investment, especially long-term finance, can be extremely expensive in Uganda. Matters are aggravated by the constant need for collateral by financial institutions.²¹

15 <https://allafrica.com/stories/202006220239.html>

16 Remittances are also a significant source of diaspora investment capital; it is estimated that between 20% and 30% of remittance flows are used for small-scale investments, often in family-owned businesses and land/property. The Ugandan Diaspora Agribusiness Network 2022

NETWORKING +
SKILLS TRASNEFR

It brings together around sixty Ugandan diaspora agripreneurs residing in nine countries of destination in Europe, Japan, and the USA. The members are identified and mobilized through focus group discussions, and the Network is comprised of country chapters/networks and a global chapter that collaborate with the Ministries of Foreign Affairs and Agriculture. One focal point per country has been identified in order to collaborate with the migration and rural stakeholders and keep the network active beyond the project.

The Network is currently involved in the FAO first Ugandan diaspora-youth agribusiness matching programme to facilitate the transfer of network members' skills and investments into Ugandan youth-led agribusinesses. FAO has supported Ugandan youth to prepare their business pitches and mobilized diaspora agripreneurs and investors through Business-2-Business meetings and business forum.²²

Programme Harnessing the Positive Effects of Migration 2020

INVESTMENT+
AGRIBUSINESS

Bringing together public and private sector stakeholders, the programme has contributed to making the diaspora voice part of decision-making processes and enhancing visibility of diaspora contributions to agribusiness development through the organization of the first edition of the Ugandan Diaspora Agrifood Investment Conference and Award and the setup of UDAN. In addition, the project has contributed to empowering diaspora as agents of development through the provision of tailored coaching in agribusiness and the inclusion of their voices in the formulation of the National Diaspora Policy.²³

FORWARD/MIFUMI – Campaigning against early marriage 2015

Diaspora organisations FORWARD and MIFUMI in the UK have developed innovative programmes to address social problems in Uganda such as early and forced marriage, domestic violence, and Female Genital Mutilation.²⁹ MIFUMI successfully lobbied the government and was mandated to hold the first social referendum in Uganda in December 2001, which resulted in 60% approving the reform of bride price. MIFUMI has also pushed for reform in laws resulting in enactment of The Tororo Bridal Gifts Ordinance into law in 2009, and a no-refund ruling on bride price by the Uganda Supreme Court on 6th August 2015.³⁰
