Overview of the policy and legislative framework

- 2010 ● Law on Migration (Law No. 25871) – Ley de Migraciones (Ley No. 25871): provides that the government may subscribe international agreements to guarantee labor and social security rights to Argentinians abroad and the possibility to send remittances to their families in Argentina. It also provides fiscal incentives to those Argentinians abroad who decide to return to the country (tax exemptions on professional tools, household goods and vehicles) and obliges embassies and consulates to provide all the necessary services to Argentinians abroad in order to keep them informed about fiscal incentives for their return.

» Trends & achievements

The government of Argentina has a very welcoming policy for citizen naturalization, which offers any Argentinian parent the ability to apply for citizenship for their child. Additionally, the government makes finding diaspora communities anywhere around the world relatively easy by maintaining a detailed website that includes groups in over 100 countries across six continents.

While the government makes locating diaspora communities a fairly simple task, there are no official diaspora policies and it is not clear whether the government is interested in strengthening its diaspora engagement or not.

Obstacles

- Low remittance assistance: Although 2% of Argentinians live abroad and the value of remittances is relatively low, diasporas from more advanced economies tend to be more active in other ways than via remittances, e.g. via philanthropy.
- Lack of policy framework: There is no policy framework informing government outreach to the diaspora or guiding activities. For example, although the Argentine government provides efficient and easily accessible government information and regional community programs to its citizens abroad through their website “Argentinos en el mundo”, the activity is primarily an effort of the foreign affairs office to fulfil its administrative work of informing its citizens, rather than an attempt to drive engagement.

SPOTLIGHT: effective practices

Naturalization Efficiency

The government of Argentina makes citizenship through naturalization very accessible.⁵ Children born abroad to Argentines are able to apply for citizenship at their embassy or consulate. The child must have at least one Argentine parent. The cost of obtaining citizenship is free. However, in order to obtain the National Document of Identification (DNI), which is necessary for all citizens, the fee is 300 pesos in the currency of the country you live in.

Recognition of Active Argentines Abroad 2018

In 2018, the Foreign Minister, Jorge Faurie, granted special recognition and signed diplomas to Argentines abroad who demonstrated outstanding work in the social or business sector or in the strengthening of bilateral relations. Argentinean representatives were prompted to identify citizens in their jurisdiction that matched the criteria; the main one being the positive contribution the citizen had made for the image and visibility of Argentina abroad and/or their contribution to the development and strengthening of ties between the members of the Argentine community in their country of residence. The awards were presented at a formal event with the winners' family and friends.

NETWORKING AND PARTNERSHIPS

Comunidades Argentinas en el Mundo

The government of Argentina has an extensive list of local Argentinean community groups in 21 countries and 6 continents. The government website provides users with the type of group, the country and city it is located in, the name of the organization, an email contact, and the website link. New community groups can be submitted by email to argentinosenelmundo@mrecic.gov.ar The list is intended to be useful to Argentines abroad, who can access information about organizations where they can meet and interact with other Argentinean citizens.
