MAIN FEATURES

Context &amp; needs	The government of the Republic of Madagascar, with support from the International Centre for Migration Policy Development (ICMPD)'s MIEUX+ initiative, recently elaborated a national policy to guide engagement with the Malagasy diaspora and mobilise their skills for the development of the country. The policy recognises the broad contributions of the diaspora in terms of human capital, as well as the need to improve institutional knowledge about their situation, needs and aspirations. The Action builds on the government's existing efforts to facilitate the participation of the Malagasy diaspora in the country's development. The Diaspora Directorate has requested assistance in building its capacity to engage its diaspora and identify which of their skills could help address the structural needs faced by Madagascar. This includes the lack of skilled labour, particularly in the field of information and communication technology, as well as the lack of teachers, especially in the higher education sector. To address these priorities, the Diaspora Directorate recognised the need to profile the diaspora on a regular basis and to develop the tools and competencies required to do so. The Action will facilitate the transfer of diaspora expertise and knowledge on how to effectively develop such methodologies and tools.
Objectives	General objective The Action aims to mobilise diaspora professionals to equip the Diaspora Directorate with the tools and knowledge needed to profile the technical, intellectual and financial skills of the Malagasy diaspora. Specific objectives <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Identify and assess different approaches to profiling diaspora skills, including the use of networks and diplomatic services.</li> <li>• Develop a standard methodology for profiling the skills of the Malagasy diaspora.</li> <li>• Pilot the methodology with the Malagasy diaspora in France and Switzerland and enable the replication of this methodology in other countries of residence in the future.</li> </ul>
